

ART ON ICE TOUR 2025: MARIUS BEAR AND STRESS CONFIRMED AS FIRST ARTISTS

The eagerly awaited Art on Ice show returns in 2025 with its spectacular combination of world-class figure skating and top-class live music. Fans can already look forward to two outstanding Swiss music greats: the singer and ESC participant Marius Bear and famous musician Stress have been announced as the first music acts on the upcoming tour. The new production of the multiple international award-winning show can be seen again in Zurich, Fribourg and Davos. Tickets are available to book immediately from www.artonice.com.

Two major national music stars – Marius Bear, 31, who has already achieved international success with his powerful voice, and Stress, 47, one of Switzerland's most renowned musician – will be performing at Art on Ice. «It is a great pleasure for us to have two absolutely exceptional artists on board in Marius Bear and Stress,» says CEO Oliver Höner. «They are a perfect fit for Art on Ice with their musical diversity and thrilling stage performances.» The artists, too, are looking forward to the 29th edition of the show. «It's very exciting to be involved in a production like this and to be part of a bigger story,» says Andres Andrekson, Stress's real name. Stress, from French-speaking Switzerland, will perform his hits such as «Libéré» and «Elle», alongside an appearance together with Marius Bear. Bear already knows what to expect, as he stepped in at short notice in 2023 for British singer Rag'n'Bone Man, who had to cancel for family reasons. «It was a great experience even back then. I'm looking forward to performing my own songs like «My Crown» and «Not Loud Enough,» says the Appenzeller, who represented Switzerland at the Eurovision Song Contest in 2022.

Swiss world class and international stars on the ice

Some acts also have a home advantage on the ice: Lukas Britschgi and Kimmy Repond are the current Swiss champions and won bronze at the 2023 European Championships. At Art on Ice, they will once again cause the audience to daydream and move them. The Swiss line-up is completed by Alexia Paganini. The show also features the absolute top international skaters and teams: European champion Loena Hendrickx from Belgium, the French double European champion Adam Siao Him Fa and German pairs skaters Minerva Fabienne Hase / Nikita Volodin, winners of the 2023 Grand Prix Final, will create magical moments with top technical skills and emotive choreography. The surprise European champions from Italy, Lucrezia Beccari and Matteo Guarise, will celebrate their Art on Ice début. Canadian Elladj Baldé, who is campaigning for greater diversity in ice skating, is taking part for the fourth time. His ability to entertain makes him the star of the social media scene – and a highlight of Art on Ice. Last but not least, the tour will be enriched by none other than world champion Ilia Malinin. If you would like to experience live the quadruple fireworks displayed by the «quad god» from the USA, Art on Ice 2025 is definitely not to be missed.

Further music acts and figure skating stars will be announced in the coming weeks.
